

Content

1 Introduction	13
1.1 Jewish American Literary Tradition	18
1.2 Third Generation Jewish American Writing	22
2 Memory	27
2.1 Memory Studies and Memory Categories	29
2.2 Trauma	33
2.3 Holocaust Trauma, Memory, and Representation	37
2.4 Power Struggles of Memory	41
3. Symbolic Characters and Memory	45
3.1 Ghosts from the Past – Symbolic Holocaust Characters	46
3.1.1 Ghosts in Foer’s Everything is Illuminated	49
3.1.2 Ghosts in Foer’s Extremely Loud & Incredibly Close	60
3.1.3 Ghosts in Auslander’s Hope: A Tragedy	70
3.2 Symbolic Characters and Memory in Krauss’ The History of Love	82
3.2.1 Ghosts and Historiographic Metafiction	84
3.3 Symbolic Writer Characters	95
3.3.1 Writers and Writing in The History of Love	98
3.3.2 Writing as Cathartic Experience	103
3.4 Symbolic Family Characters	110
3.4.1 Traumatic Family Memory	112
3.4.2 Family Memory and Jewish Identity	120
4 Symbolic Objects and Memory	135
4.1 Symbolic Objects and Memory in Krauss’ Great House	136
4.2 The Desk as an Object Symbolic of the Holocaust	138
4.2.1 Symbolic Objects and Silence – Suppressed Holocaust Trauma	141
4.2.2 Collecting Symbolic Objects – Holocaust Trauma and Redemption	147
4.3 The Desk as an Object Symbolic of Writing and Writers	156
4.3.1 Desks as Objects Symbolic of ‘Lives of the Mind’	157
4.3.2 The Desk as an Object Symbolic of Literary Achievement	164
4.4 Houses and Furniture as Symbolic Family Objects	174
4.4.1 Intra-familial Transgenerational Effects of Holocaust Trauma	174
4.4.2 An Israeli Family and War Trauma	183
5 Conclusion	191
Bibliography	203