

Contents

List of acronyms.....	IX
Glossary.....	XI
Dedication and acknowledgments.....	XV
Summary	XXI

Part I – Setting the stage

Chapter 1: Introduction	3
1.1 Overture.....	3
1.2 Context.....	5
1.3 Agroecology in the MST’s strategy	11
1.4 Project overview and significance.....	17
1.5 Argument and organization of the thesis.....	23
Chapter 2: The research project	27
2.1 Introduction	27
2.2 Problem and core research questions.....	27
2.3 Conceptual framework.....	34
2.4 Methodology.....	38
2.5 Movement trust and choice of focus.....	43
2.6 Funding and access to fieldsite	45
2.7 Ethical guidelines.....	46
2.8 Importance of collaboration with other researchers.....	47
2.9 Timeline	49
2.10 Dataset.....	50
2.11 Introduction to fieldsite	52

Part II: Living agroecologically?

Chapter 3: The agroecological rift	63
3.1 Introduction	63
3.2 Terra Prometida, the promised land	64
3.3 “There was a rush to conventional methods”	69
3.4 The rift	72
3.5 The “agroecologicals”	79
3.6 The “conventionals”	86
3.7 The “In-betweeners”	92
3.8 Future outlooks	97
3.9 Conclusion	100
 Chapter 4: Embedding a sociotechnical imaginary?	 103
4.1 Introduction	103
4.2 Sociotechnical imaginaries and the “arrival” of agroecology	105
4.3 “It’s a bit crazy for a conservation biologist to say this, but this is our reality”	114
4.4 A “new way of seeing”?	121
4.5 Agroecology and the city	126
4.6 Conclusion	131

Part III : Learning agroecology

Chapter 5: Scaling agroecology “in”	145
5.1 Introduction	145
5.2 Young adults: a strategic public for movement-mediated agroecological higher education	147
5.3 ERS as an “internationalist” space of self-governmental resistance	151
5.4 Organicidade: agroecology and “the collective”	158
5.5 Scaling in: Agroecology as an ethical posture	169
5.6 Conclusion	177

Chapter 6: Ambiguous dialogues.....	179
6.1 Introduction	179
6.2 Political agroecological subjectivities	180
6.3 Witnessing contradictions	187
6.4 Diálogo de Saberes: Theory and practice	191
6.5 Breaking the “conventional vision”	201
6.6 Conclusion.....	208
 Chapter 7: Barriers to dialogue.....	 209
7.1 Introduction	209
7.2 Internal democracy and the “generation question”	210
7.3 Returning home from ERS: agroecology or militância?	213
7.4 Complicating the local: How democratic are “horizontal dialogues”?	219
7.5 Where is the place in place-based?	225
7.6 Gender: The greatest contradiction.....	229
7.7 Conclusion.....	238
 Part IV: Conclusion
 Chapter 8: Conclusions.....	 241
8.1 Introduction	241
8.2 Main findings.....	241
8.3 Contribution to scholarly literatures.....	244
8.4 Implications and future research avenues.....	250
8.5 Personal outlooks and the limits of policy.....	253
 List of Figures	 255
 References: Original interviews	 257
 References: Bibliography.....	 261